Introduction

To coordinate your care, treatment and services, information regarding your medical history, treatment and payment for your health care may be originated and/or received by On With Life. Information which can be used to identify you and which relates to your medical care or payment for your medical care is commonly known as "protected health information," or PHI, and its use and disclosure is protected by state and federal law. On With Life always obtains or discloses only the minimum amount of relevant information necessary, and has administrative (policies, procedures), physical (security locks, backups) and technical safeguards (passwords, encryption) in place to ensure the confidentiality, availability, and integrity of this information. Except for the types of situations listed below, On With Life must obtain your specific written authorization for any release of your PHI.

Ways Your Protected Health Information (PHI) Can Generally Be Disclosed

Generally speaking, health professionals, using their best judgment, may release to a family member, other relative, close personal friend or any person you identify, health information relevant to that person's involvement in your care or payment related to your care.

We may request specific written authorization from you to release records related to mental health information, substance abuse, human immunodeficiency virus (HIV) test results, suspected assault and abuse, legal requests, and the records of minors. Any requests related to marketing, such as highlighting the story of a person served for our Headway magazine, will also require a specific written authorization.

How On With Life Will Use Your Health Information For Treatment Purposes

On With Life provides multi-disciplinary, team-based care to our persons served, so staff working in all areas of your care need access to your PHI. Those individuals may include, but are not limited to: physicians, nurses, social workers, rehabilitation and therapy staff, psychologists, and dietitians. All On With Life staff are oriented at hire and re-educated annually on safeguarding the protected health information of our persons served. Non-staff, such as students in training, are also educated on these policies and are required to sign confidentiality statements before they are allowed access to your PHI. It may also be necessary to release your PHI to health care providers outside On With Life who are involved in your care, such as a hospital or clinic, to ensure continuation of your medical care.

How On With Life Will Use Your Health Information For Payment Purposes

It is necessary for On With Life to use or release PHI to you, your insurance company, or other third party payer, so that treatment and services provided by On With Life may be billed and collected for. Documentation related to payment may include PHI which identifies you, your diagnosis, and any care you may receive. On With Life may also release your PHI to another health care provider, individual or entity covered by the HIPAA privacy regulations for payment activities, including, but not limited to, Medicaid, Medicare or your personal health insurance carrier.

How On With Life Will Use Your Health Information For Health Care Operations

Your PHI may also be used for internal quality assurance purposes, such as measuring our performance on certain quality of care measures. We take steps to de-identify this information so that it cannot be tied to you as an individual person served. We may disclose PHI to our business associates that perform functions on our behalf or provide us with services (such as a third party administrator that assists with claims processing, or language interpreting services) if the information is necessary for such functions or services. All of our business associates are obligated to protect the privacy of your information and are not allowed to use or disclose any information other than as specified in our business associate agreements. On With Life will never sell your protected health information.

Using PHI for Research Purposes

Your de-identified PHI may be used or released for research purposes if the research follows all required approval procedures and the necessary rules governing uses and disclosures of protected health information are agreed to and followed. An example of such research is comparing outcomes for the same treatment amongst different persons served. We will ask you for specific authorization for any research in which your protected health information would not be de-identified.

Using PHI As Required Or Permitted By Law

Federal law requires additional disclosures of PHI that are not related to the above. These include:

Our Responsibilities

Federal law also imposes certain obligations and duties upon On With Life with respect to your PHI. Specifically, On With Life is required to:

- Provide you with a notice of On With Life's legal duties and its policies regarding the use and disclosure of your protected health information (this document).
- Maintain the privacy of your PHI in accordance with state and federal law. This includes protecting PHI for 50 years after an individual is deceased.
- Notify you if your unsecured PHI is breached.
- Respond to your request to restrict certain uses and disclosures of your PHI. We must agree to your request to restrict PHI if the information pertains to a health care item or service for which you, or person other than a health plan on your behalf, have paid in full.
- Allow you to inspect and obtain a copy of your PHI during regular business hours and according to On With Life policy. If your PHI is maintained electronically in one or more designated records sets, we must provide you access to your PHI in the electronic form and format you request.
- Act on your request to amend PHI within sixty (60) days and notify you of any delay that would require On With Life to extend the deadline by thirty (30) days.
- Accommodate reasonable requests to communicate PHI by alternative means or methods.
- Obtain a signed acknowledgement that you have received this Notice.
- Abide by the terms of this Notice.

Incidental Disclosures: The Federal HIPAA laws acknowledge that incidental disclosures may occur. Examples of incidental disclosures include:

- a discussion with your provider may be overheard by another person
- a visitor may glimpse your name somewhere in our facilities
- an employee not regularly involved with your care (such as information technology staff) may see some of your care documentation while doing maintenance on On With Life's electronic medical record

Unfortunately, no amount of administrative, physical, and technical safeguards can completely eliminate these incidental disclosures, but On With Life will always take reasonable steps to limit them as much as possible.
